

Improving Clinical Trial Oversight

Medidata and Informa Pharma Intelligence conducted a survey to evaluate the impact of increasing complexity on clinical trial oversight. We asked clinical operations professionals how recent changes in clinical trials have impacted their work.

FACTORS MOST IMPACTING DAY-TO-DAY JOB OF TRIAL OVERSIGHT

OVERSIGHT WORKLOAD

81% of survey respondents experienced some type of increased workload related to clinical trial oversight

TIME SPENT ON LOW IMPACT ACTIVITIES

IDENTIFYING ISSUES

65% of respondents felt their organization operated below best practice levels identifying issues quickly

The 3 biggest challenges in identifying operational issues more quickly:

CLINICAL TRIAL COLLABORATION

62% of respondents felt their organization operated below best practice levels collaborating effectively across functions in clinical trials

Key barriers to clinical trial collaboration:

Financial Limitations
16%

System Incompatibility
16%

Staffing Levels
14%

OVERSIGHT COMPLETION

ONLY 1/4 of respondents completed 75%+ of their clinical trial oversight tasks and issues on time

AND ONLY 2% of respondents claimed to have completed all their tasks and issues on time

STEPS TO SUCCESS

Technology solutions, such as a next-generation Clinical Trial Management System (CTMS) can help clinical operations staff work smarter.

By changing the approach to clinical trial oversight, a robust CTMS can unlock both efficiency and effectiveness.

Understand Data In Context

- Enter data once and it's available everywhere
- Enable real time visibility into trial data
- Identify potential problems sooner

Break Down Silos

- Have everyone working from the same information
- Eliminate data and operational silos
- Prioritize study quality over data reconciliation

Optimize Outcomes

- Eliminate duplicate data entry
- Centralize analysis and communication of issues
- Take action and resolve issues sooner

Rave CTMS

The Intelligent Oversight you need to be more effective is finally here.
